MINES AND MINING.

out Doubt the Mining Center of America-San Francisco's Narrawsighted Policy-Number of Shares Sold and Closing Prices.

[Weekly Report of Mining Associated Press.] New York, August 18.-Transactions at the mining exchanges during the past week have aggregated 442,-675 shares, saying nothing of transctions upon the street in unlisted stocks. Dealings to day were had in 99,962 shares. The volume of business done in this city and San Francisco may be fairly illustrated by comparing today's transactions with those reported in San Francisco a week ago vesterday, when the sales amounted to 25,-970 shares. The figures would seem to indicate that with nearly four times the business, New York is certainly the mining center of the country. There is a stendy and healthy increase here, and apparently as steady a decrease on the Pacific slope. San Francisco has watched and waited for months for a boom, not in the shares of mines scattered all over the country, but simply on the Comstock. Indications now seem to point to inan ore body, more or less extensive, in the Union. Whether the new movement is to be founded on merit or on manipulation will probably make no difference, so long as there is a deal, and San Francisco brokers feel called of their shirt cuffs to record their operations, as it is reported they have been doing for some time. Brokers in New York sympathize with their breth- Tucson's Railroad Racket. ren in San Francisco, for this market feels the reflex influence, and business here is correspondingly better in Pacific coast shares, accordingly as the activity is greater there.

As will be seen by the table given below, no Comstock mine, nor the mines of any single State or Territory absorb the attention of this market. The mining interests here are so diversified that if one district goes down dealt in at San Francisco is excepted from the calls of our exchanges, but in addition there are so many other stocks that the diversity serves as a statement would have been scouted. It shows, bowever, that the mines have come to stay. Although these figures indicate a large amount of business, it is safe to predict that within four months there will be days and weeks when the transactions will be very much larger. The following table gives the number of shares dealt in during the week and closing prices for the stocks named:
